Information Communication Technology

Keeping up with the changing times means embracing the need for techno-innovative methods of student teacher learning/teaching. In 2016 the College took a big step towards this by initiating the process of having a Smart Classroom in the New Science Building.

Besides this, multiple departments have been equipped with projectors to take learning beyond text books.

Smart Classroom

The College Central Library in collaboration with the IQAC held a webinar titled “VIRTUAL LEARNING: THE ROAD AHEAD” on the 18th of SEPTEMBER’2020. It brought together educators, experts, and stakeholders to discuss the evolving landscape of online education. Hosted in a virtual format, the event aimed to explore the challenges, opportunities, and best practices associated with virtual learning in today’s rapidly changing world. This write-up recaps the key highlights and takeaways from the insightful webinar. With MOOCS or Massive Open Online Course taking centre stage, it is important for the old school teaching to catch up with new age technology and use to the betterment of students. The webinar was insightful as it highlighted the gains and pitfalls of co-opting ICT in education. By taking these insights and recommendations into consideration, educators and stakeholders will be better equipped to navigate the exciting road ahead in virtual education.
